

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A projection unit is provided. The projection unit may include a projector having a wide-angle lens system. The projector may be positioned substantially adjacent a display surface and may be configured to generate an image on the display surface. The projection unit further may include a moveable element supporting the projector configured to enable selective lateral positioning of the projector.